Pre-wedding skin preparation is just as important as the makeup you artfully apply. Skincare experts—from top runway makeup artists to celebrity dermatologists—share their favorite skin treats to have your complexion beaming with radiance in a flash!

1. Jurlique Rosewater Balancing Mist, at Women's Wellness Spa: Backstage beauty veteran Diane Kendel tells us, "Before I start the makeup, I like to mist the girl's face with rosewater spray. It gives the skin a fresh glow, and it helps to calm down any irritation."

2. Clinique Turnaround Instant Facial, at Samco: Facialist Ole Henriksen recommends an at-home peel. "Smoking, excess alcohol, too much powder, or even a moisturizer that's not hydrating enough can lead to dull skin," says Henriksen.

3. Rodin Olio Lusso Skin Oil, at beauty.com: Tom Pecheux reveals his no-fail skin solution, "If the girl's skin is dry, I'll apply a drop or two of Rodin Olio Lusso

Skin Oil. It's a blend of essential oils and botanicals, and it's so soothing."

4. Shiseido White Lucent Brightening Mask, at Merch: Dick Page, legendary makeup artist says, "I love for the models to use the Shiseido Brightening Masks—they look like thin cloths you put on the face—before makeup for shows. It brightens the skin, making it more radiant."

5. La Prairie Cellular Treatment Gold Illusion Line Filler, at Abu Shakra: For big events, makeup artists hide wrinkles and fine lines with primers that "lay down a smooth layer of silicone over the skin," says Ava Shamban, assistant clinical professor of dermatology at UCLA, who recommends this stellar primer.

6. Phytotherm Puffiness Decreasing Eye Gel, at Azara Beauty Center: "If you wake up puffy, dab a pea-size drop of depuffing eye gel that contains caffeine on the area," says Patricia Wexler, associate clinical professor of dermatology at Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York City.

7. Rouge Bunny Rouge Captured Mist of Serenity Gentle Cleansing Water, at The Beauty Bay, Dubai: Makeup artist Aaron De May recommends: "If the skin is stressed I like to treat it very calmly with a gentle water-based cleanser. It's a good idea to avoid using any products that contain alcohol."
